

Péter Müller: Man's Life, Woman's Fate

312 pages

The many-thousand-year-old rule of the man is collapsing. And the suppressed true and eternal experience of the Self in the woman's soul is being born. We are living in the age of the biggest change in the history of humanity: the catharsis of the man's soul and the awakening of the woman's soul. In our fate and relationships, we experience dramas we have not seen before. Hence it is difficult to live as a man or a woman today. The man needs to find his betrayed, elevated mental reality and humility again, at the price of the self breaking into pieces first. The woman needs to find herself and her humility, which she has never been allowed to do before.

I do not know what kind of world is coming. But if a new world is born, it will be built on respect of the women. I am sure of that.
